To,
The Vice Chancellor/Dean/Principal,
All Law Universities/Colleges/Schools,

Subject: Inviting papers for International Conference on "Criminal Justice in India" [25th November, 2016 at Vigyan Bhawan, New Delhi]

Dear Madam/Sir,

As you would be aware that Indian National Bar Association (INBA), over the past couple of years, has been undertaking major structural initiatives to strengthen the Indian Legal System.

In the same series, INBA under the patron-ship of Shri KTS Tulsi [Senior Advocate, Supreme Court of India] is organizing an International Conference on "Criminal Justice in India" on 25th November, 2016 at Vigyan Bhawan, New Delhi.

Theme: One of the most intractable problems since independence has been the gradual increase in the delay of criminal cases in the country. There is adequate evidence to support the view that delay in disposal of criminal cases has a direct bearing on the declining conviction, adulteration and piracy flourishes because of failure of criminal justice to decide cases between a reasonable time.

To encourage student community to actively participate and contribute in this conference, INBA is announcing "Call for Papers". Open to all enrolled LL.B (3 years & 5 years) & LL.M courses, this is an attempt to interest & encourage law students to think, research and contribute to literature on strengthening Criminal Justice System in India.

Students can write a paper on any of the following topics with a word limit of 4,000 – 5,000. The last date for the receipt of the papers is 15th November, 2016.

- Death Penalty - what is rarest of rare?
- Modernization of police stations
- Modernization of criminal courts
- Bail or jail- can we have clarity
- Plea bargaining.

The papers written by students should be sent to:
Archana Aggarwal on archana_aggarwal@indianbarassociation.org

A brochure with the rules of Paper Submission is attached herewith for your convenience.

We look forward to the participation of students from your esteemed institution.

Yours Sincerely,

Kaviraj Singh
Secretary General
Indian National Bar Association (INBA)
